Mrs. Stuart received in a quaint gown, a Collot model of Dresden taffeta, and fashioned after the period of Louis XVI, with a pointed bodice, finished with a cobwebby fichu of filusion and silver lace, and caught with a knot of roses. The sleeves were of silver lace, and the skirt was looped up in puffs, with Nile green satin ribbons and crystal tassels. She carried a fan in place of a nosegay. Mrs. Charles Dale Carter was handsomely gowned in an imported black veivet, embroidered in silver. Her ornaments were diamonds, and she wore a bouquet of diamonds, and she wore a bouquet of orchids. Miss Mary Fulton Stuart wore a girlish costume of white charmense, with a flower-like overdress of blue taffeta shot with pearls. There was a selection of the state of taffeta shot with pearls. There was a delicate drapery of silver lace, the bodice and sleeves being formed of the same, and the overdress was embroid-ered in bok-knots of pearls and silver beads. Owen, the Assistant Secretary of State, and Mrs. Osborn, the Comptroller of the Currency and Mrs. John Skelton Williams, of Richmond: the Counsellor of Corporations and Mrs. Joseph E. Davies, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. McChord, Mr. John Barrett and Miss Margaret McChord. Jefferson Dansants.

Fashionable society will again be out in large numbers to attend the two dansants given this week at the Jefferson Hotel, under the direction of Mrs. Mary Pace Groner and Mrs. R. W. Hawkesworth. The first affair is to be a supper dance and will be held on Friday evening from 19 to 1 o'clock, And the second is a "the-dansant," and takes place on Saturday afternoon from 4 to 7. The two held last week were very attractive and pleasing events, and the dancing of Miss Margaret Hakesworth and Basil Durant, as well as the musle of Europe's famous orchestra, have been the subject of much interested comment during the past several days.

Violin Recital.

Art Club of Richmond yesterday afternoon for the regular weekly lecture that was given by Miss Elizabeth Webb. Miss Webb spoke to the large gathering at the club on the subject of "The Aid of Art in Training the Feebleminded," and Miss Mary B.
Baughman, who was chairman of the afternoon, introduced her to her audience. Miss Webb is a graduate of the Vincland School, New Jersey,

$1,000,000 FUND BY ROCKEFELLER

Donated for Study of Animal Diseases to Institute for Medical Research.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] New York, March 31.—The Rockefel-ler Institute for Medical Research an-nounced to-night that John D. Rocke-feller has donated a $1,000,000 fund for the study of animal diseases, and that James J. Hill has pledged $50,000 for the investigation of the hog cholera.

The announcement reads:
"The Rockefeller Institute has heretofore confined its investigations to the study of the fundamental problems of biological science and to investiga-tions in the field of human diseases. "Animal diseases are as important, not only because of their economic, but of their close relationship to human diseases.

"The loss to the country entailed by animal diseases is to be calculated not only in terms of animals destroyed, but with reference to the discouraging effects on enterprise in animal husbandry, which such epidemics, as the recent epidemic of hog cholera, always

"It has been estimated that in the Northwest alone hog cholera has killed $50,000,000 worth of swine during the last year.

"In the history of medical science, the work of Pasteur on anthrax and the more recent observations in this country on Texas fever in cattle, which opened the door to present knowledge concerning insect carriers of malaria, yellow fever and other diseases, are conspicuous illustrations of the value of studies on animal diseases. The Rockefeller Institute has accordingly decided to extend its work so as to include research in the field."

Returns Open Verdict.

An open verdict was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury which inquired into the death of O. B. Clinzebrook, a carpenter, who was instantly killed on Monday when he was run over by a train at Elba Station. It merely stated that he came to his death by being struck by the engine.

Mr. Glazebrook's funeral will take place this afterneon at 3 o'clock from the Pine Street Baptist Church.

Mantell as "Macbeth" and "King Lear." Mantell as "Macbeth" and "King Lear."
Robert B. Mantell, himself America's representative actor, in spite of his modest advancement of Otis Skinner for that title, having given last night a superb performance of "Hamiet," closes his engagement at the Academy of Music to-day with "Macbeth" in the afternoon and "King Lear" at night.

"He Fell in Love With His Wife."
This may sound involved, but it is true that the clientele which Grayce true that the elientele which Grayce Scott and her associates of De Witt Newing's stock company have created during their long and successful season at the Bijou has fallen in love with "He Fell in Love With His Wife." That comedy-drama of romance, rurality and villainy seems to have gone straight to its glowing heart with its sentiment and to have touched its funny bone with its humor, for all three of the performances that have been given this week have been followed with tense interest and sympathy when the element of heart interest was uppermost and have been greeted with uproarious laughter greeted with uproarious laughter when its vein of comedy came to the surface.

The play, or a play based upon the ame novel, was seen at the Academy of Music about four years ago, with Carleton Macey in the lead; but, though the general outline of the version presented by the Grayce Scott Company is the same as that of the dramatization made by Edith Ellis, the piece varies considerably in incident and even in the characters utilized. It is also a simpler arrange-ment and, therefore, better suited for present purposes. Merely suggested with utmost brev-ity, the story is of a prosperous farmer (John Warner), who marries a young, innocent and charming wom-an with a past (Grayce Scott), though her past was no fault of hers, upon a purely business basis—he needs a housekeeper, and she needs a home. The villain who created her past comes back into her life and makes trouble she tries to sacrifice herself for her husband's welfare; the husband will have none of her sacrifice—he wants her, and not the memory of her—and he beats up the villain properly.

He does not adopt the method of the business-husband in Billie Burke's "The Land of Promise," but waits for love to come to him, and it comes—love and happiness. All the comedy is by the way and not of the essence of the story, but it is le-gitimately injected, not lugged in and cast upon the stage, and at times the members of the company seem to ap-preciate it as fully as does the audi-

Miss Scott plays with as much dis-cretion as the lines of her part will per-mit her to exercise; Mr. Anders gives an excellent performance as the elder-ly "up-State" justice of the peace, and Mr. Basset is a skilfully detestiable vil-lain of the blackest hue, while Mr. Lynch supplies a good bit of character work as the man of all work.

This bids fair to be one of the most prosperous weeks of this company's sea-

Good Rating for Lyric's Hill.

Taking into consideration individual tastes, personal equations, the laws of percentage and general battling averages, the Lyric's bill for the week rates well up.

White cycling acts are rarely novel, that offered by Libby and Barton contains as much that is new as any of them; it is certainly good enough for an opener. Then the performance sags a little from the weight of the singing act of Ethel and Emma Hopkins. One of these girls has a good voice, but the other is not the "cutle doll" called for by her sister's song.

For the turn of Ismed, the "sensational Turkish pianist, direct from Constantinople," the stage is well dressed, and the audience yesterday afternoon seemed to like Ismed's playing immensely.

Ed. Vinton exhibits the accomplishments of his marvelous dog, "Buster," in a manner that exploits his clever training and his own poor individual performance. The dog either actually thinks and understands human speech, or is able to see and follow signs that are imperceptible to the eye of mere man. However he does it, this Buster dog scores the one big personal success of the bill—as his master says, he is "some meal ticket."
